Arabic Language

اللغة العربية

Arabic is a living language, spoken and written by more than 400 million people, in countries stretching from the Middle East and Arabian Peninsula, to North Africa, and across Asia. What's more, Arabic is considered a sacred language for more than a billion Muslims, and a language which has contributed massively to our society.

Arabic is currently an official language in 22 countries, and has spread both orally and through literature thanks to its long history.

Previously used by the pre-Islamic Arabic tribes for their poetry, the development of the Muslim religion saw the Arabic language transformed from one of Arab culture, into the sacred language of Islam as well.

The History and Evolution of the Arabic Language

Arabic belongs to the Afro-Asian language family, which includes more than 300 languages which all have their own writing, vocabulary, and dialects.

The first written trace of the Arabic language is an inscription from the 4th century AD which was found in the Syrian desert.

Arabic is a poetic language, and includes many different dialects. Its literary style reflects the cultural heritage of the different tribes.

Today however, the Arabic language (especially Classical Arabic) is especially associated with the Muslim religion.

The Quran tells us that from 610-632 AD the Prophet Mohammed received messages from God via the archangel Gabriel, in what is now Saudi Arabia. Arabic is considered to be one of the oldest languages in the world with a wealth of knowledge that Archeologists to this day are still trying to uncover. Importance of Arabic has roots going back as far as the sixth century. The Middle East has a rich storytelling history that has produced some of the most remarkable stories such as the Arabian Nights, Ali Baba, and Aladdin. Arabs have also made significant contributions in such areas as mathematics, navigation, belly dancing, astrology, and architecture.

Maddah

long Vowels Letters “Maddah Letters”

Madd means to stretch, to pull, The Maddah Letters (long Vowels Letters) will be prolonged for the duration of one Alif or two Harakah and the duration of one Alif/ two Harakah is two seconds.

There are three letters of Maddah. These are: alif (ا), yā'(ي) or wāw(و) The rule has the following conditions:

- 1. Alif Maddah: when Alif is silent and the letter before Alif has a Fatha (َ) on it, then the letter Alif is called Alif Maddah and will be prolonged / stretched for two measures of Harakah (for two seconds). If there is fathah before alif letter then the Alif is called alif-maddah, will be pull equal to two harakah or one Alif (duration of alif or two Harakah is two seconds)
- 2. Wāw Maddah: when wāw has a Jazm/Sakoon and the letter before wāw has a Dammah on it, then this wāw is called wāw Maddah and will be prolonged for two measures of Harakah (for two seconds). If there is Dammah before wāw Sakin then the wāw is called wāw-maddah, will be pull equal to two harakah or one Alif (duration of alif / two Harakah is two seconds)
- 3. Ya Maddah: when yā has a Jazm/Sakoon and the letter before yā has a Kasra on it, then this yā is called yā Maddah and will be prolonged for two measures of Harakah (for two seconds). If there is Kasrah before yā Sakin then the wāw is called wāw-maddah, will be pull equal to two harakah or one Alif (duration of alif / two Harakah is two seconds)

Sun Letters and Moon Letters

In Arabic, the consonants are divided into two groups – the Sun-letters (حروف شمسية) and Moon-letters (حروف قمرية). This classification is based on whether or not they assimilate the definite article al (ال).

When the definite article is assimilated into the Sun-letters and it loses its distinctive sound. As a result, the sound at the beginning of the word is doubled. (Given Shaddah).

For example: (الرَّحْمَن) Ar Rahman. The merciful-a name of Allah

Whereas, the definite article retains its distinctive sound when it comes before one of the Moon-letters.

For example: (الأَرْض) Al- Arz, The earth.

The Sun and Moon letters might seem tricky, but they are really easy.

Keep in mind: It's all about pronunciation.

The Rule Is In The Name

The Arabic term for Sun-letters is (الحروف الشمسية) and in Al Shams, you don't pronounce the ل (Lam). As for the "Moon-letters", it is (الحروف القمرية), and for Al Qamar, the ل (Lam) is pronounced.

There are 28 consonants in the Arabic alphabet. Exactly half are Sun, and half are Moon.

Sun Letters. (الحروف الشمسية)

The 14 Sun-letters are: (ن, ل, ظ, ط, ض, ص, ش, س, ز, ر, ذ, د, ث, ت).

(الرَّحْمَن) the merciful-a name of Allah. (الصُّبْحِ) the morning brightness.

The 14 Moon-letters are:

(أ, ب, ج, ح, خ, ع, ف, غ, ق, ك, م, و, ي, ه). Arabs usually memorize this rhyme that contains all the Moon-letters.

إِنِّغْ حَجَّكَ وَخَفْ عَقِيْمَه (which roughly translates to: 'Perform Haj and be wary of quarrel').

Examples of words that begin with moon letters are:

(الأَرْض) the earth.

(الْخَلْق) the creation.

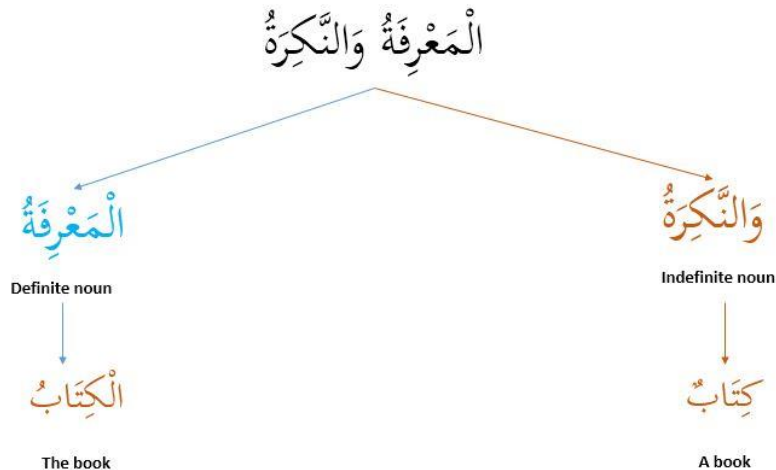

(الْقِيَامَة) the day of judgment.

(الْكِتَاب) the book.

DEFINITE AND INDEFINITE NOUNS IN ARABIC LANGUAGE.

The Nouns (الأسماء) in Arabic language can be divided into two types: which are Definite (معرفة) and Indefinite Nouns (نكرة).

The Indefinite Noun (النكرة)

Indefinite noun (النكرة) in Arabic are the nouns which are not referring to a specific name of a person, animal, place, or thing. The indefinite noun can be formed in Arabic language by adding one of the signs of Tanween.

The indefinite Nouns is always indicated by the use of article (a) or (an) to show that the item is not known before the period of discussion.

examples: كتابٌ A book, كتابٌ جديدٌ A new book. رجلٌ A man.

The Definite Noun (المعرفة)

In Arabic Language, the definite noun is known as (المعرفة). It is the type of noun that is referring to a specific name of a person, animal, place or thing. Hence, this means you are referring to the name you have already known before or have in mind.

The (ال) definitely makes a word definite, while Tanween, such as: fathataan (ً), kasraatan (ِ) and dammataan (ٌ) make a word indefinite*. A word cannot have both (ال) and tanween attached to it at the same time.

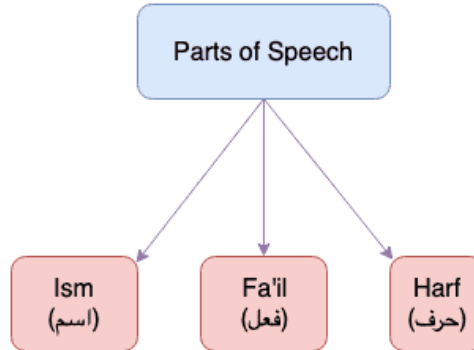

Sometimes people's names have tanween on their end, This is called exceptional to the rules.

The Definite noun can be identified in many ways among which are:

1. The definite Nouns formed with the addition of (ال) (article The) to the beginning of the noun. الولد The boy.
2. The definite Nouns formed by the use of pronoun (الضمير), هو He هي She
3. The definite Nouns formed by the use of The Proper Noun (العلم) يوسف Yusuf,
4. The definite Nouns formed by the use of The demonstrative Pronoun (اسم الإشارة) هذا This, هذه This.
5. The definite Nouns formed by the use of Relative Noun (اسم الموصولة) التي That, الذي That
6. The definite Nouns formed by the use of (يا) يا O you! اجلس يا ولد Sit down you boy!
7. The definite Nouns formed by Adding Indefinite Noun to definite Noun (المضاف الى) قميص أحمد Ahmad's shirt, قميص A Shirt. (معرفة)

Part of Speech in Arabic Grammar

أقسام الكلام

There are 3 parts of Speech in Arabic Grammar. Every word that we read/speak will fall into following 3 categories,

- i. Ism (اسم)
- ii. Fa'il (فعل)
- iii. Harf (حرف)

1. Ism (اسم)

Ism in Arabic Grammar can be compared to nouns in English language. e.g. زيد, فاطمة, كتاب etc.

To identify اسم from an Arabic sentence there are few signs, which we will discuss now.

Signs of Ism (علامات الاسم):

There are multiple signs of a word being Ism. But here we will discuss 5 of them which are as follows,

- i. عَلَم (Proper Noun). If the word is Proper noun or name of human or animal or any things. It will be Ism (Noun). E.g. مُحَمَّدٌ، هِنْدٌ، مَكَّةُ، سَيَّارَةٌ
- ii. دخول ال (Alif Laam)

If we find ال on any word then that word is Ism e.g. اَلْحَمْدُ لِلّٰهِ (All praise and gratitude belongs to Allah)

- iii. التنوين (Tanween) If we find tanween on a word then that word is Ism e.g. جاءَ زَيْدٌ (Zaid Came)
- iv. دخول حرف الجر على الكلمة (Harfe Jaar)

If we find Harf Jar before any word then that word is Ism e.g. من البيت (from house). Here, house is Ism as it is followed by Harf Jar (من)

v. دخول حرف ندا (يا، أيها) (Harfe Nida)

If we find Harfe Nida before any word then that word is Ism. E.g. يَا مَالِكُ

2. Fa'il (فعل)

Fa'il in Arabic grammar can be compared to verbs in English language

e.g. كتب، يذهب، أخرج

Signs of Fa'il (علامات الفعل):

There are multiple signs of a word being Fa'il. But here we will discuss 4 of them which are as follows:

i. دخول قد: If we find قد before a word then it is الفعل e.g. قد ذهب.

Note: This sign works with both Fa'il Madhi (فعل ماض) Past Tense. and Fa'il Mudhari (فعل مضارع) Present and Future Tense.

ii. دخول السين أو سوف: If we find Seen (السين) Or Sawfa (سوف) before a word then it is الفعل e.g. سوف أذهب Or سأذهب.

Note: This sign works with فعل مضارع only.

iii. دخول (لم، لن): If we find لم before a word then it is الفعل e.g. لم أذهب إلى البيت لن يَنَالِ

Note: This sign works with فعل مضارع only.

iv. دخول تاء المتكلم: If we find تاء المتكلم at the end of a word then it is الفعل e.g. ذهبتُ OR خرجتُ.

Note: This sign works with فعل ماض

v. (نون المشدد: نّ) If we find نّ at the end of a word, it is فعل e.g. لَيَقُولَنَّ

3. Harf (حرف)

Harf in Arabic grammar can be compared to prepositions in English language. e.g.

مِنْ	Min	From	إِلَى	Ila	To
حَتَّى	Hatta	Until	عَلَى	A'la	On
و	Wa	And	فِي	Fee	In
بِ	Baa	By	كَ	Kaaf	As

Signs of Harf (علامة الحرف): There are No Signs for Harf

الْجُمْلَةُ الاسْمِيَّةُ وَالْجُمْلَةُ الْفَعْلِيَّةُ

The Nominal Sentence and The Verbal Sentence –

In Arabic language there are two types of sentences:

1. The Nominal Sentence meaning / الجملة الاسمية Al jumla tul Ismiyya/ - this sentence starts (mostly) with a noun.
2. The Verbal Sentence meaning / الجملة الفعلية Al jumla tul Feliyya/ - this sentence starts (mostly) with a verb.

Please read the following carefully and note the difference between the sentences:

	The Nominal Sentence "Al jumla tul Ismiyya" الْجُمْلَةُ الاسْمِيَّةُ	The Verbal Sentence "Al jumla tul Feliyya" الْجُمْلَةُ الْفَعْلِيَّةُ
Arabic	أَحْمَدُ ذَهَبَ إِلَى الْجَامِعَةِ.	ذَهَبَ أَحْمَدُ إِلَى الْجَامِعَةِ.
Transliteration	Ahmadu dhahaba ilal Jāmiati	Dhahaba Ahmadu ilal Jāmiati
Literary Reading	Ahmad went to the university	Went Ahmad to the university
Arabic	الْمُدَرِّسُ خَرَجَ مِنْ فَصْلٍ.	خَرَجَ الْمُدَرِّسُ مِنْ فَصْلٍ.
Transliteration	Al mudarrisu kharaġa min faṣlin	Kharaġa al mudarrisu min faṣlin
Literary Reading	The teacher went out of a class	Went out the teacher of a class

Two of the sentences in the above table are the nominal sentences and the other two are verbal sentences.

A nominal sentence is called "Al jumla tul Ismiyya and a verbal sentence is called Al Jumla tul Fe'liyya.

الجنس

The Gender

The gender of noun in Arabic is either masculine or feminine. The masculine is the basic form; therefore, it does not require a marker. The feminine is derived from the masculine; it requires a feminine marker. There are two types of masculine: real masculine and unreal masculine. Likewise, the feminine has three types: real, unreal, and marked. This post explains the masculine and feminine forms of nouns in Arabic.

المذكر والمؤنث Masculine and Feminine
المؤنث Feminine	المذكر Masculine	النوع Type
فتاة 'girl', فاطمة 'Fatimah', دجاجة 'chicken', امرأة 'woman', أفعى 'snake', زينب 'Zainab', طبيبة 'doctor'	ولد 'boy', رجل 'man', نمر 'tiger', علي 'Ali', عامل 'worker', حصان 'horse', تلميذ 'pupil'	حقيقي Real
ورقة 'paper', غرفة 'room', صحراء 'desert', عين 'eye', نار 'fire'	كتاب 'book', باب 'door', سيف 'sword', أنف 'nose', بحر 'sea', شهر 'month'	مجازي (غير حقيقي) Unreal
حمزة 'Hamzah', أسامة 'Osama', زكرياء 'Zakaria'	Unmarked	لفظي Marked

Real Masculine المذكر الحقيقي:

The real masculine noun is the noun that refers to a human or animal male, such as رجل 'man', ولد 'boy', محمد 'Mohammed', طبيب 'male physician', مهندس 'male engineer', رجل أعمال 'businessman', أسد 'lion', حمار 'donkey', كلب 'dog', جمل 'male camel', عصفور 'male sparrow' and so forth.

Real Feminine المؤنث الحقيقي:

The real feminine noun is the nouns that refers to a human or animal female, such as امرأة 'woman', فتاة 'girl', فاطمة 'Fatimah', طبيبة 'female physician', ممرضة 'nurse', مهندسة 'female engineer', تاجرة 'business women', لبوة 'lioness', أتان 'female donkey', كلبة 'bitch', ناقة 'female camel', عصفورة 'female sparrow' زينب 'Zainab' and so forth.

المذكر المجازي / غير الحقيقي Unreal Masculine:

The unreal masculine noun is the noun that is treat as a male human or animal, but it is not one, such as كتاب 'book', نهر 'river', قلم 'pen', بحر 'sea', قمر 'moon', باب 'door', سيف 'sword', هاتف 'phone', حمام 'bathroom' and so on. Most learners of Arabic assume that these nouns are masculine forms since they don't have a final feminine suffix marker (see below), but that is not always the case, as there are nouns that don't have the feminine marker, but they are feminine, as seen below.

المؤنث المجازي / غير الحقيقي Unreal Feminine:

The unreal feminine noun is the noun that is treat as a female human or animal, but it is not one, such as صورة 'picture', سيارة 'car', شمس 'sun', صحراء 'desert', نار 'fire', أذن 'ear', رجل 'leg', عين 'eye', طاولة 'table', دار 'house' and so forth. Although some of these nouns don't have the feminine marker, but they are still treated as feminine.

While it is easy for a native speaker to tell whether the noun is masculine or feminine (given their intuition), learners of Arabic should learn the gender of these words as they come across them. This is the best learning strategy.

المؤنث اللفظي Marked Feminine:

While masculine nouns are not marked for masculinity, feminine nouns are. The marked feminine المؤنث اللفظي, which literally means verbally marked feminine, but in reality it is not feminine, is the noun that has the feminine marker but it refers to a masculine noun. This is especially common in the case of proper nouns, such as حمزة 'Hamzah', معاوية 'Mu'awiyah', أسامة 'Osama', زكرياء 'Zakaria', علاء 'Ala'a' and alike. These nouns end in taa marbutah and alif and hamzah, which are feminine markers, but they are masculine.

علامات التأنيث / Feminine Marker Suffixes Signs of Faminity:

1. ة / ء at-taa' al-marbuTah: التأء المربؤطة

It is the most common feminine marker in Arabic. Its addition to the end of nouns is accounted for as follows:

- i. It is intrinsically part of a nouns that refer to female entity, as in these examples:

نافذة 'window'	سيارة 'car'	حديقة 'garden'	عائشة 'Aisha'
----------------	-------------	----------------	---------------

- ii. It is added to adjective / nouns to derive the feminine form from the masculine, as in these examples below. By dropping the ة / ة, we get the masculine form.

'female worker' عَامِلَةٌ	'female doctor' طَبِيبَةٌ	'female teacher' أَساتِذَةٌ
'female Muslim' مُسْلِمَةٌ	'beautiful – fem. form' جَمِيلَةٌ	'female scientist' عَالِمَةٌ

2. أَلِفُ التَّأْنِيثِ الْمَقْصُورَةِ alif at-ta'niith al-maqSuurah: ي

It is a feminine marker in the following cases:

- i. The masculine form of adjectives that are weighed (in the Morphological Measure) as فَعْلَان is weighed as فَعْلَى in the feminine (i.e. ending in alif maqSuurah), as in these examples:

Feminine form	Masculine form
عَطَشَى	'thirsty' عَطْشَان
كَسَلَى	'lazy' كَسَلَان
جَوَعَى	'hungry' جَوَعَان

- ii. The masculine form of a comparative noun (adjective) that is weighed as أَفْعَل is weighed as فَعْلَى in the feminine, as in these examples:

Feminine form	Masculine form
كُبْرَى	'bigger than' أَكْبَر
عُظْمَى	'greater' أَعْظَم
صُغْرَى	'smaller' أَصْغَر

'pregnant' حُبْلَى

'Salma – name' سَلْمَى

3. أَلِف التَّأْنِيثِ الْمَمْدُودَةِ alif at-ta'niith al-mamduudah: ء / اء

It is a feminine marker in the following cases:

- i. The masculine adjectives that are weighed as أَفْعَل are weighed as فَعْلَاء in the feminine, as in these examples:

Feminine form	Masculine form
حَمْرَاء	'red' أَحْمَر
عَمِيَاء	'blind' أَعْمَى
حَوْلَاء	'cross-eyed' أَحْوَل

(اسم الإشارة) ism ul-ishara Demonstrative Pronoun

Generally, demonstrative pronouns are words like 'this' and 'that'. In Arabic, they are called 'demonstrative nouns' أَسْمَاءُ الْإِشَارَةِ. A demonstrative noun by itself is an ambiguous word until defined by a subsequent word. As regards gender, a demonstrative pronoun is either masculine or feminine. As for number, it is either singular, dual, or plural. As to reference, it refers to a noun that is close, a noun that is far, or a noun that is neither close nor far. This post explains all these aspects.

Demonstrative Noun (for near)

Demonstrative Nouns أَسْمَاءُ الْإِشَارَةِ

هَذَا (hadha) has the following properties:

1. it is used to point at something
2. it is used for something that is near
3. it is used with the masculine
4. it is used with the singular
5. it is used to point at something that has intellect or something that has no intellect
6. it is definite

هَذِهِ (hadhihi) has the following properties:

1. it is used to point at something
2. it is used for something that is near
3. it is used with the feminine
4. it is used with the singular
5. it is used to point at something that has intellect or something that has no intellect
6. it is definite

EXAMPLES:

أَسْمَاءُ الْإِشَارَةِ لِلْقَرِيبِ
هَذَا مُحَمَّدٌ
هَذِهِ آمِنَةُ

As we can see we say HADHA MUHAMMADUN (This is Muhammad) for singular, masculine, near with intellect, and HADHIHI AAMINATU (This is Aminah) is used for indicate that it is a female, singular, near with intellect.

ذَلِكَ (dhalika) has the following properties:

1. it is used to point at something
2. it is used for something that is far/ distant
3. it is used with the masculine
4. it is used with the singular

6. it is definite

EXAMPLES:

اسماء الاشارة للبعيد

ذَلِكَ مُحَمَّدٌ. ذَلِكَ كِتَابٌ.

تِلْكَ آمِنَةٌ. تِلْكَ سَيَّارَةٌ.

As we can see, in blue, the first one says DHALIKA MUHAMMADUN. (That is Muhammad) and is used for someone far, masculine, singular with intellect, the second one is DHALIKA KITABUN. (That is a book) used for something far, singular, masculine and it is an object.

In pink we see 2 examples too: TILKA AAMINATU: (That is Aminah) and it is used for a female, singular, far and with intellect. And the second examples says: TILKA SAYYARATUN. (That is a car) and is used for feminine noun, something far, singular and is an object.
